Rule 6.7: Scheduled Loan Payments.

All contractual monthly payments shall be substantially equal. The threshold for variance between the initial (or final) payment and remaining payments should be no more than five dollars ($5.00.) The determination of compliance with this threshold shall not take into consideration any variance in the final payoff amount that is the result of one or more late fees incurred during the loan term. Rule 6.8: Late Payment Fees.

No interest or additional fee shall be charged on any late fees or other default-related fees allowed by MCAA.

 - b. Such fees are “clearly disclosed in the credit availability agreement.”
2. Late fees shall be tracked as a separate line item and shall not be added to or combined with the principal balance to incur additional fees. The statutory limit of a maximum 10% late fee penalty on the amount due/owing for a delinquent monthly payment is sufficient to compensate for any late payment without the incurrence of additional fee/interest on a late fee itself.
3. Late fees shall not be deducted from any regular payment for the purpose of creating an additional late fee.
4. The addition/inclusion of any previous late fee to increase the Outstanding Principal Balance is prohibited.
5. A late fee may be charged and collected only once on any scheduled payment, regardless of the period during which the scheduled payment remains in default.
6. Bi-Weekly late fees: Late fees may only be charged after 10 business days have elapsed following the monthly due date. No more than 10% of the total monthly payment shall be collected as a result of late payment due during any month.

Example: A Licensee contracting for bi-weekly payments in lieu of one monthly payment, may only charge a 10% late fee on a single bi-weekly payment that is more than 10 business days late, thus ensuring that if both bi-weekly payments are more than 10 days late, the account holder incurs total late fees not greater than 10% of the total payment due in any given Month.

Returned or NSF payment attempts may, however, retroactively result in the account holder incurring a late fee as allowed herein. Only one late fee per monthly payment is allowed, even if the payment is late and it is also subsequently returned NSF.

(b) If applicable, the Licensee may charge and collect from the account holder any fees and costs relating to the repossession and sale of collateral, including, but not limited to, fees and costs associated with the repossession, storage, preparation for sale and sale of collateral. Proof of these expenses shall be maintained in the account holder's file.

no statutory restriction on the parties' ability to renew, or otherwise modify, an existing contract, except as provided herein.

Based on §§75-67-619(2)(a) and (b), any given credit availability account assigned to an account holder means that all outstanding "transactions" to that credit availability account must be combined together for the purposes of determining under which section of the statute a loan shall be made.

When any credit availability account has an outstanding principal balance that is or will be greater than $500.00, any new credit availability transactions made shall be calculated on the entire principal balance owed and such loan shall be made under Section 2(b), with a term of six to twelve (6-12) months.

4. If an existing loan is paid-off via a new loan, refinanced, rolled-over, etc., the existing Loan number or account number and the total amount paid-off via the new loan shall be itemized on the new loan agreement.

5. Right of Rescission.

The contract for any credit availability agreement shall include, along with other state or federal law requirements, the right for an account holder to rescind the transaction within one (1) business day; provided, however, that if the account holder accepts funds from the credit availability Licensee prior to the expiration of the one-day rescission period, any Origination Fee charged shall be nonrefundable.

Rule 6.6: Handling Fees/Origination Fees.

1. Origination Fees.

- d. The Origination Fee shall be calculated based on 1% of the “Amount Financed” to the account holder” or five dollars ($5.00) whichever is greater.
- e. For the purposes of the federal APR calculation, an Origination Fee must be included as part of the “Finance Charge” disclosure as required by the federal Truth-in-Lending Act, Regulation Z. (i.e., Total Handling Fees + Origination Fee = Finance Charge shown in federal TILA box)
- f. An Origination Fee is optional; however, if charged, it shall be disclosed in the written agreement. It may be collected with the first payment or it may be allocated in the amortization schedule and collected monthly; however, it must not be included in the calculation of the Handling Fee.

2. Handling Fees.

- c. The Handling Fee is for services, expenses, and costs of the license. This includes any and all costs associated with checks or ACH authorizations that are returned for nonsufficient funds. The Licensee is not allowed to charge a separate NSF fee.
- d. The Handling Fee must be calculated based on a percentage up to but not exceeding “twenty-five percent (25%) of the outstanding principal balance of any credit availability account per month, or portion thereof. All other fees shall be excluded from the calculation of the Handling Fee (e.g., Origination Fee, late fees, collection fees, etc.)
- c. In no event shall any Handling Fees be charged or collected in an amount greater than the fees shown in the Federal TILA box and the “written explanation of fees.” Unearned Handling Fees shall be refunded or credited if an account holder pre-pays a loan before the final fixed maturity date.

Rule 6.7: Scheduled Loan Payments.

All contractual monthly payments shall be substantially equal. The threshold for variance between the initial (or final) payment and remaining payments should be no more than five dollars ($5.00.) The determination of compliance with this threshold shall not take into consideration any variance in the final payoff amount that is the result of one or more late fees incurred during the loan term. Approval of payment variance may be requested by writing to the Director of Consumer Finance at DBCF.

There is currently no prohibition on an account holder making multiple payments in any given Month or agreeing with the Licensee to make payments on a higher rate of frequency than monthly. See below regarding Bi-weekly late fees.

Rule 6.8: Late Payment Fees.

No interest or additional fee shall be charged on any late fees or other default-related fees allowed by MCAA.

1. A late fee of ten percent (10%) of the past-due amount may be charged and collected by a Licensee if both of the following conditions are met:
 - a. The account holder fails to pay a monthly payment “within ten (10) business days after the due date.” And
 - b. Such fees are “clearly disclosed in the credit availability agreement.”
2. Late fees shall be tracked as a separate line item and shall not be added to or combined with the principal balance to incur additional fees. Any late fee charged during the term of the loan shall be added to the end of the term of the loan as an additional sum to be collected after the final scheduled equal monthly payment, and may thereafter be collected prior to payoff. The statutory limit of a maximum 10% late fee penalty on the amount due/owing for a delinquent monthly payment is sufficient to compensate for any late payment without the incurrence of additional fee/interest on a late fee itself.
3. Late fees shall not be deducted from any regular payment for the purpose of creating an additional late fee.
4. The addition/inclusion of any previous late fee to increase the Outstanding Principal Balance is prohibited.
5. A late fee may be charged and collected only once on any scheduled payment, regardless of the period during which the scheduled payment remains in default.
6. Bi-Weekly late fees: Late fees may only be charged after 10 business days have elapsed following the monthly due date. No more than 10% of the total monthly payment shall be collected as a result of late payment due during any month.

Example: A Licensee contracting for bi-weekly payments in lieu of one monthly payment, may only charge a 10% late fee on a single bi-weekly payment that is more than 10 business days late, thus ensuring that if both bi-weekly payments are more than 10 days late, the account holder incurs total late fees not greater than 10% of the total payment due in any given Month.

Rule 6.9: Other Fees Prohibited During Term of a Producing Loan.

No other fees shall be charged by a Licensee as a result of “insufficient funds” (marked “NSF”), or a dishonored/returned check or ACH debit attempt from a financial institution during the term of an active producing loan. Returned or NSF payment attempts may, however, retroactively result in the account holder incurring a late fee as allowed herein. Only one late fee per monthly payment is allowed, even if the payment is late and it is also subsequently returned NSF.

Rule 6.10: Collection Fees Allowed After Default.

2. If placed in collection, the Licensee may charge and collect the following fees in connection with any such default, provided that such fees are clearly disclosed in the credit availability agreement:

(a) If the Licensee is required to employ a third party, including an attorney, to collect on the account the Licensee may:

(i) If the credit availability agreement so provides, charge and collect a reasonable collection fee and attorney's fee; and

(ii) If the credit availability agreement so provides, shall be entitled to recover from the account holder all court costs incurred and to recover any court-awarded damages, including those incurred on appeal.

(b) If applicable, the Licensee may charge and collect from the account holder any fees and costs relating to the repossession and sale of collateral, including, but not limited to, fees and costs associated with the repossession, storage, preparation for sale and sale of collateral. Proof of these expenses shall be maintained in the account holder's file.

NOTE: None of these fees may be charged and collected unless and until the account holder is in default for more than 60 days. In other words, collection fees cannot be assessed until day 61 of default.

Rule 6.11: Limitation on Multiple Loans.

There is no statutory prohibition on more than one credit availability transaction being made to the same account holder account by a single Licensee, except as described herein. There is likewise no statutory restriction on the parties' ability to renew, or otherwise modify, an existing contract, except as provided herein.

Based on §§75-67-619(2)(a) and (b), any given credit availability account assigned to an account holder means that all outstanding "transactions" to that credit availability account must be combined together for the purposes of determining under which section of the statute a loan shall be made.

When any credit availability account has an outstanding principal balance that is or will be greater than $500.00, any new credit availability transactions made shall be calculated on the entire principal balance owed and such loan shall be made under Section 2(b), with a term of six to twelve (6-12) months.

Similarly, no fees or charges shall be capitalized or added to a delayed deposit transaction during any conversion of the delayed deposit transaction to an MCAA loan. Handling Fees may only be calculated on the original principal of the previous loan. Services charges and fees owed from the previous loan shall be itemized separately in the written agreement on the new loan.

2. Notice shall be provided to an account holder in writing of any refund due and owing for more than 45 days.

3. When any agreement is paid in full, the Licensee shall credit or refund all unearned Handling Fees. The sum of the digits or rule of 78ths method of calculating prepaid refunds is prohibited.
4. All refunds shall be documented on a receipt, signed by the account holder acknowledging receipt thereof.
